Hillsville has a fine high school building. It was built within the inst two years, at a cost of $6,000. There has been a splendid advance in education during that period. Professor Binford and Dr. Williams were much gratified by the evidences of public interest in educational matters they found in the hills. The people of Carroll contributed $2,500 of the fund expended in the construction of the high school

Dr. Williams and Professor Einford were greatly pleased with everything they saw in the hills, finding the people the most hospitable imaginable. They were showered with attentions everywhere they went. The visitors were much impressed with the Woodlawn High School in Carroll, which is a brick building that cost $10,000.
